

What's Happening During Riverboat Days....

An enjoyable part of the entertainment every year is the students from Judi's Fitness and Dance Studio and Academy of Dance. Both studios have displayed such talent over the years that it wouldn't be Riverboat Days without them.

The dancers will be taking the stage at various times throughout the weekend. Check the schedule for more information.

Friday night from 6-8 p.m. many arts vendors will be open. Friday night you can also take advantage of the delicious food for sale and the beverage tent will be open.

Weather permitting you can get a bird's eye view of the park by taking a ride in the Hot Air Balloon.

You will want to make sure and come back to the park on Saturday, Aug. 22, after the parade. The Summer Arts Festival will get under way at 10 a.m., as do the food vendors for anyone that is hungry early.

All weekend the kids can have fun at the Children's Activity Tent. You can't miss this free activity located under the big blue tent by the amphitheatre.

Judd Hoos

Based out of South Dakota, the Judd Hoos band has traveled across the country opening for big acts like Breaking Benjamin, Three Days Grace, and Big Head Todd.

With their massive state of the art show, Judd Hoos makes each show a truly exciting experience.

The band consists of Zach Fronce (guitar),

Omaha, BE; Shane Funk (drums), Spearfish; Chris Hornich (bass), Rapid City; Andy Young (guitar), Chadron, NE; and Bob Zwart (vocals), Sioux Falls.

They will be performing at 8 p.m. Friday, Aug. 20, at the parking lot north of the Beverage Shelter. Stick around after the concert for the annual fireworks show

The Dweebs

The Dweebs are a unique variety band whose live performances combine excellent vocals, audience participation and superior musicianship to breathe new life into your favorite songs of the past and present.

This family band features Michael Blue, his daughter Claire and son Benjamin, all on lead vocals, and son Mike Jr. on the drums. T-Bone Coen plays keyboards and Trevor Radtke plays bass.

Come and see for yourself why The Dweebs are the "ultimate party band" and one of the top draws in the Midwest. If you have missed them in the past you won't want to miss them this year!

They will be performing at 8 p.m. Saturday in the parking lot north of the Beverage Shelter. There will be no admission fee for the concert.

Andy Gibson

Based in South Dakota and gaining popularity, the Andy Gibson Band has been picking up momentum in the music world.

Andy, along with Andrea, Chuck, Brian, and Dan make up the five piece band. Andy Gibson starts off with 'Everything I Am' going to #11 on the

The Dweebs

National Christian Country Charts. His new song Long Road is playing on hundreds of radio stations across the nation. They recently announced they are in the finals in a contest to perform with the Zach Brown Band in an upcoming concert.

You can listen to the Andy Gibson Band from 2-3:45 p.m. Saturday at the Amphitheatre.

The Log Hoggers

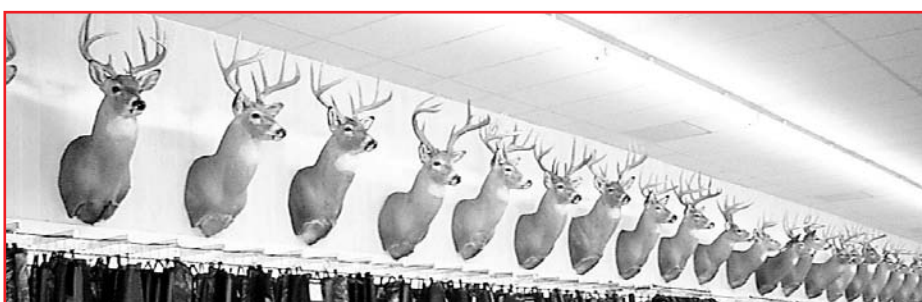

For the past few years, visitors to Riverboat Days have been amazed by the talents of the Log Hoggers.

The Log Hoggers are able to masterfully transform logs into beautiful wood carvings with their chainsaw.

There will be demonstration during the weekend, located just north of the food vendors. On Sunday you won't want to
