

It's August: Riverboat Days 2015 Is Nearly Here!

BY KATIE GREENE
RBD Secretary

Before becoming the secretary for Riverboat Days, I had been to many of them and spent time with friends. I also volunteered and worked in the ticket trailer on both Friday and Saturday nights. I thought I knew a lot about Riverboat Days.

I was wrong. I have to say, my last seven years have been a tremendous learning experience. Not only about the day to day operations of a festival this size, but about how much work and money it takes to have a successful weekend.

As secretary, I take many calls from organizations who would like to fundraise during Riverboat Days. The Board of Directors really does an amazing job of squeezing in as many non-profit organizations as they can. As you spend time in Riverside Park, I encourage you to take a look around and see for yourself all the groups that take part in Riverboat Days and help to make it the wonderful event that it is.

One of the first events that will take place Saturday, August 22, at 9:30 a.m. is the Riverboat Days parade. Our parade is the one event that is all about our theme: "Red, White, & Blue ... We Salute You!" We are so proud to announce Don and Marlys List as our parade marshals for 2015. Don and Marlys List have been married for almost 60 years, during which, Don served almost 42 years in the South Dakota National Guard. He was activated twice in his career, once for the Korean conflict and the second time for the Berlin crisis. Both Don and Marlys are active in the VFW and the American Legion. Don is captain of the VFW honor guard and Marlys devotes time to the Ladies Legion Auxiliary and the VFW Auxiliary. Thank you both for your dedication and service. It is a complete honor to have you start off our parade this year.

The Riverboat Days Board of Directors feels like we cannot thank the parade committee enough for taking care of this event and making it seem so easy! There are many people on that committee, but Wayne and Jolene Williamson are the co-chairs who get things rolling!

Yankton Area Arts is once again preparing for another fabulous year with the Summer Arts Festival part of Riverboat Days. Booths have the option of opening up on Friday, Aug. 21, at 6 p.m. All booths will be open Saturday from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. and Sunday from 9:30 a.m.-5:30 p.m.

Our Children's Tent will have a new location this year. We have decided to move it closer to the other children events located south of the Baseball Diamond. Friday night we have the Avera Obstacle Course with Coach Rozy from 7-9 p.m. On Saturday from 1-3 p.m., the Zoo Mobile from Sioux Falls will be here with some critters for us to look at and touch.

For other information on any of our other events, please visit our website at www.riverboatdays.com or visit our Facebook page. If you have any questions please feel free to contact me at the Riverboat Days Office at 665-1657 or drop me an email at office@riverboatdays.com

On behalf of our Board of Directors — Randy Oliver (Co-chair), John Kraft (Co-chair), Dick Hunhoff, Nancy Teachout, Donna Madson, Mike Byrkeland, Rick Stone, Rich Andre, Robert Byrkeland, Milissa Wuebben, Jake Hoffner, Mike Villanueva, Dave Wright and myself — we would like to invite you to Riverboat Days 2015: Aug. 21-23.

August Climate Update

BROOKINGS, S.D. - Throughout July 2015 conditions were quite variable across South Dakota, said Dennis Today, South Dakota State Climatologist & SDSU Extension Climate Specialist.

"Early July started off fairly cool across the state," said Today, explaining that warmer temperatures during the mid and latter part of the month helped to bring temperatures closer to average for the month. "Throughout most of South Dakota, temperatures were within about a degree of average - making the overall climate conditions generally good for crop development and livestock," he said. "A few extreme events did occur, but were not long-lived."

Precipitation helped prevent drought

During July, several areas of the state went two to three weeks with little to no precipitation resulting in dry conditions developing. However, Today pointed out that late-July precipitation, along with other isolated storm events, during the month, helped resolve some of the developing dryness issues. "Much of eastern South Dakota had 3 to 5-plus inches of precipitation," Today said, "Which is as much as 2 inches above average."

Precipitation totals in some areas reached more than 8 inches resulting in several communities ranking July 2015 as the top 10 wettest on record, including: Academy, White Lake and Vermilion.

With the exception of the Black Hills, Today said much of Western South Dakota turned dry during July. "Following the wet May and June there are limited issues to this point," he said.

August 2015 outlook Looking ahead to August, Today said South Dakota is expected to experience a few large changes, according to the recent National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA) Climate Prediction Center Outlooks.

"Temperatures are likely going to be close to, or slightly below average over the state and areas to the south of South Dakota," Today said. "The impact will be to reduce potential stress conditions for crops which are still somewhat dry."

Laura Edwards, SDSU Extension Climate Field Specialist added that below average temperatures would also produce below average growing degree days (GDDs). "Current GDD accumulations are around average over the state," she said. "With the likely cooler temperatures, corn in particular, will likely lose a little development ground. This situation should be monitored, but should not be a major problem."

The precipitation outlook leans to the wet side for August, with above average accumulations more likely. "Over most of the state this will not be a problem - except for the wetter areas in southwest South Dakota and a few small wet pockets elsewhere in the state," said Edwards. "Unless the accumulations are very high - additional moisture would be beneficial for the dry areas west of the river."

She said, referencing the few areas which are currently rated as Abnormally Dry or D0 according to the U.S. Drought Monitor.

"This outlook is consistent with impacts expected from the ongoing El Niño event," she said. "Near average to wetter conditions and slightly cooler conditions are mostly likely during the latter part of the growing season during El Niño events."
